Dear colleagues,

Please find attached a project proposal (GreenKICS) from a French International Business & Consultant, aiming at building a KIC (Knowledge and Innovation Community - <http://eit.europa.eu/kics-call.html>) in the field of climate change, mitigation and adaptation.

GreenKICS proposes to develop a community of innovative knowledge in order to make concrete and rapid responses to the problems of planetary mutation and climate change.

It is thus then :

- To develop a system of inter-operable self-knowledge accumulation based on electronical semantics in order to create ontologies and multilingual multimedia documents standard markup scientifically organized allowing the coexistence of free content rights and commercial solutions (TEI / XML and standards);
- To develop open source tools for calculating carbon emissions and modeling the environmental footprint of economic, political and social activities;
- Develop educational eLearning formations for long life learning (both sectorial and thematic training) and for students from childhood to LMD with the aim of rapid acquisition of empirical knowledge concerning the climate change implications;
- To disseminate innovative knowledge, innovative applied technologies, and the develop entrepreneurship and leadership in innovation and environmental societal behavior;
- To build long-term partnerships with multinational companies concerned about their image and also aware of the impact of environmental problems on their future, SMEs and emerging innovative structures;
- To cooperate with States and international organizations.

Partners search will be focused in priority on university and a firm in 2 different countries ; nevertheless, all corporate bodies such as NGO, foundations, governmental entities... etc are welcomed.

The partner need not to be structurally involved in environmental thematics, insofar as, for instance, it could be specialized in eLearning, technological development , employment and social relationships issues, or all issues allowing an organizational innovation likely to bring dynamic and innovative answers.
